600 engineering students take oath of social service

LOKMAT NEWS NETWORK
NASHIK, AUG 22

600 students studying engineering in Sandip Foundation's Engineering College took an oath to do public welfare work in association with Swapnapurti social organisation by reaching remote tribal areas in Nashik district. Sandip Foundation's Engineering College has organised week-long activities to mark the new academic year. On this occasion, a programme was organised by Swapnapurti Social organisation, which is working in seven districts of the state including Nashik. Prof Sachin Kakade, founder president of Swapnapurti guided the students in two sessions and introduced the functioning of the organisation on this occasion. During the programme Kakade said that if the youth use education to solve social problems, it will not take long to bring about changes in the social, educational and environmental sectors. He also said, it is important for students to cultivate moral values along with social responsibility. The heads of the first-year departments including Prof Jitendra Shah, Prof Shradha Navale, Prof Vandana Chitodkar, Prof Supriya Ahire were present on this occasion.
